ROYAL MARINE CHANGES

On completing one year's seniority in his present rank, Lieutenant-General L. C. Lampen, R.M., has retired at his own request.

This gives a step in rank to Major-General G. R. S. Hickson, C.B., C.B.E., formerly in command of the Portsmouth Division of the Corps. Colonel A. S. Cantrell, R.M., who has been Director of Naval Recruiting for the past four years, has also retired at his own request.

Lieutenant-Colonel J. M. Tuke, O.B.E. of the Plymouth Division, succeeds him at the recruiting office in Whitehall. Major (Brevet) Lieutenant-Colonel E. C. Weston, of the Portsmouth Division, becomes a substantive lieutenant-colonel; and Captain G. W. M. Grover, another Portsmouth officer, who has qualified as a barrister-at-law, is promoted to major.

Lieutenant-General Lampen is 56, and entered the R.M.L.I. in September, 1897. He served in the Intelligence Department from 1907 onwards, and was among the first officers to be appointed to the Naval Staff. In 1911 he became intelligence officer at Malta, and was on staff duties there and at Plymouth during the War. His last appointment was in command of Deal Depot in 1933-34.

Colonel Cantrell is 51, and entered the R.M.A. in September, 1900. From 1911 he was in the instructional staff at Portsmouth, and during the War served afloat in the battleships Collingwood and Queen Elizabeth. He became fleet R.M. officer in China in 1924, and was at the Chaitan Division in 1926-30.

ENGINEERING AND BUILDING

At the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, in order to commemorate the centenary of the birth of Samuel Pierpont Langley, who was secretary of the Institution from 1887 until 1906, on August 22, a special exhibit devoted to his activities and honours will be unveiled. At the same time through the Press and other means, attention will be called to his achievements, and it is also intended to publish a special memoir, reviewing his work and giving brief quotations from some of his writings. When Langley became secretary in 1887, the Smithsonian Institution already included the United States National Museum, the National Gallery of Art and the Bureau of American Ethnology, and to these Langley added the Astrophysical Observatory and the National Zoological Park. But, though Langley will always be remembered as an able administrator of a world-famous institution, his greatest fame came through his remarkable pioneering work in aeronautics, all of which was carried out at Washington

A Tour of Europe.
Langley was born on August 22, 1834, at Roxbury, Massachusetts, and counted among his forebears some of the most distinguished men who have served that State. Brought up in surroundings calculated to stimulate his interest in science and literature he passed through the Boston High School and then gained a training in civil engineering and architecture. But it is evident he was more interested in astronomy than in building, and after a tour of Europe in 1864, during which he visited many scientific and observatories, he definitely gave up the practice of engineering and became an assistant in the Harvard Observatory. A year at Harvard was followed by a year at the Naval Academy, Annapolis; and in 1867, at the age of 33, he was made director of the Allegheny Observatory and professor of physics in the Western University of Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh. Hitherto he had published nothing of note, but from 1898 onwards there came from his pen a very long series of scientific papers and books written in a style at once simple and lucid, which gained for them a wide circle of readers. His principal interest during his twenty years at Pittsburgh was the study of the sun, and his invention of the bolometer, an electrical thermometer of extreme delicacy, made it possible to explore the infra-red portion of the solar spectrum, to determine the temperature of the moon, and to attack the problem of solar radiation. He made several excursions in connection with total solar eclipses, and with his assistant, James Edward Keeler (1857-1900), afterwards director of the Lick Observatory, he made an expedition to Mount Whitney, in California. At Pittsburgh he also took a large share in inducing the railway companies of the United States to adopt a uniform system of standard time by which the Continent is divided up into a number of zones, the time differing by one hour from zone to zone.

"Aerodromes"

By the age of fifty Langley had gained an international reputation and in January 1887, he was appointed assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. In the summer of that year he served as president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and in November, on the death of Spencer Fullerton Baird, the second to hold the office of secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. Langley was appointed his successor. The year 1887 also seems to have marked the beginning of his great interest in the problem of human flight, then believed in by few and ridiculed by the many. The first fruits of Langley's investigations, which were all carried out in the true scientific spirit, was his volume "Experiments in Aerodynamics," published in 1891. This was followed by his book, "The Internal Work of the Wind," of 1893. Having determined some of the fundamental principles for designing a heavier-than-air flying machine, he proceeded to construct power-driven models, which he called "aerodromes," from two Greek words meaning air runners. By 1896 he had built light petrol-heated, flash-boiler steam engines suitable for his models, and with two of his "aerodromes" made successful experiments. On May 6, 1896, aerodrome No. 5, catapulted from a houseboat at Quantico, on the Potomac, flew 3,000 ft.; and on November 28, the same year, No. 6 flew a distance of 4,200 ft. These were the first sustained free flights of power-propelled heavier-than-air machines ever made.

ser-tube corrosion, and on the effect of frost on water pipes are being actively continued. Of the new researches which are being planned, mention may be made of an investigation into the effect of macrostructure on the working properties of brass and other non-ferrous metals and alloys, which is to be commenced during the present year. Two other researches are also to be undertaken, the one on the corrosion of copper (copper water-service pipes, &c.) and the other on the removal of bismuth from copper.

Very Economical

Lack of space prevents us from referring in any great detail to recent results obtained in the course of the Association's researches, but it may be mentioned that an improvement in the soundness of aluminium pistons and crankcases, for aircraft and for high-speed motor-cars, has been found possible as the result of a simple method, for the removal of dissolved gases in aluminium during casting, which has been developed by the Association. The method, it is stated, is one which can be applied in the foundry to any aluminium alloy, and large-scale tests on melts up to 600 lb. have been made with the process in the foundries of member firms. It is estimated that the cost of the treatment is less than one-tenth of 1d. per lb. of metal temperature service, on conden-

AIRWAY ILLUMINATION

Night Flying Not Neglected

Although comparatively young in years, the British Non-Ferrous Metals Research Association has now become firmly established, and the work it is doing is followed with close attention not only in this country, but in metallurgical circles all over the world. As a direct result of the Association's researches a number of valuable new materials have been made available to industry during the past few years. Prominent among these are the ternary alloys of lead for cable sheathing; and water pipes, and the aluminium-brass condensertube alloy. That the Association is in no way resting on its laurels, but, on the contrary, is actively pursuing its wide and continually expanding research and development programme, is amply shown in its recently published fourteenth annual report, covering the year ending December 31, 1933. The fact that, in addition to producers and users of non-ferrous metals, such diverse bodies as the British Electrical and Allied Industries Research Association, the Worshipful Company of Armourers and Braziers, the Institute of Marine Engineers, the Salters' Company, and the British Waterworks Association are directly interested in certain phases of the Association's work, and subscribe to its funds, is some indication of the important position which it enjoys.

Sixteen Tasks
At the close of 1933, there were 16 researches in progress, while the number of major technical inquiries from member firms during the year was 410; compared with 276 inquiries of a similar nature in 1932, and 219 in 1931. A feature of the year's work was the hastening of the movement towards a great degree of concentration of work in the Association have been conducted in the laboratories of the National Physical Laboratory, the Research Department, Woolwich, or at Universities. Latterly the conclusion has been reached, however, that a better balanced team of research workers could be secured by concentrating much of this extra-mural work in the Association's own laboratories at Regent Buildings, Euston Street, London, N.W.1, and the movement is now in course of completion. Where special equipment and experience are demanded the Association will, of course, still turn for help to the great metallurgical laboratories elsewhere.

The Spectrograph
Researches on the metallurgical applications of the spectrograph, on the electro-deposition of nickel, copper, chromium, tin and other metals, on improving the soundness of aluminum castings, on galvanizing and hot dipped tin coatings, on 80/20 cupro-nickel and complex alloys for high-

In answer to a complaint made recently in the House of Commons, the Under Secretary of State for Air said that the Air Ministry had not neglected night flying. This form of transport had, in fact, always been considerable and, in both the military and civil branches, had greatly increased during the last few years. That such an answer was possible, and there is no reason to doubt its correctness, is largely due to the attention that has been paid to the artificial illumination of both aerodromes and airways. If development is to take place, still more work will have to be done on these problems and it may, therefore, be of interest to recall what has already been achieved.

It is evident that if the special characteristics of the aeroplane, its high speed over long distances, is to be fully exploited, air lines must be operated at night. To ensure safety under these conditions it is not only necessary for the aircraft itself to be equipped with appropriate navigation instruments, but there must also be a ground organisation which is efficiently conducted, provided and maintained. This organisation must in fact be such as to afford the aviator every facility to enable him to keep his scheduled course without difficulty, to find the airport easily and to make a safe landing at any regular or emergency landing ground on his line of route. Since moreover, air traffic is international in scope, it is desirable that the lights and other signals necessary for these purposes should, in certain respects be of a universal standard pattern.

Standardisation
As is well known, the best ways of achieving this standardisation have been under consideration by the International Commission on Illumination since 1928, when a sub-committee on airway and airport illumination was appointed. This sub-committee first reported to a meeting of the Commission which was held in Berlin in 1930, and its recommendations, apart from a few modifications, were accepted at the Plenary Meeting which was held at Cambridge in the autumn of the same year. These recommendations, which included a number of terms and definitions; and tabulated the procedure then in use in this country, the United States, Germany and Switzerland, are to be found in the report of the proceedings at the meeting. Further progress was made when a meeting of the sub-committee on Airways Illumination was held at Zurich in 1957, but though on this occasion a considerable step towards standardisation was made, a great many details were left to the decision of each country, for the reason that it was recognised that the character of the territory and the climatic conditions, which are, of course, local questions, would have to be taken into account. As far as this country is concerned, the problem, pending the issue of a standard specification, has been dealt with in a Guide to Aerodrome Lighting, issued by the Aviation Lighting Committee of the British Standards Institution, the recommendations of which correspond closely with those of the International Commission. In other countries similar action has been taken.

The Beacons

Dealing with airway illumination in particular, a term which includes all lighting devices outside the airports themselves, and especially the 'beacons' lighting the routes, it is essential that the equipment employed should have the largest possible range and the smallest possible energy consumption, and should not be capable of confusion with other lights. The range of such beacons is determined by the well-known physical law, as modified by the weather conditions and the visual acuity of the observer, while the angle of vision, which depends on the size of the optical system, must also be taken into account. This being postulated, the International Commission propose that 0.2 international candlepower per kilometre should be regarded as representing the light necessary for minimum visibility. But as this figure was obtained in the laboratory, they also recommend that steps should be taken to determine the value under actual flying conditions.—

LLOYD'S RULES

And Some Modifications

In view of changes in recent years, modifications of Lloyd's Rules, have been under consideration for some time and at a general Committee held in June a number of alterations were adopted. Notice No. 1038, which was issued recently by the Committee of Lloyd's Register of Shipping embodying these modifications, provides, in fact, to rank in future years as a historic document in the development of marine engineering. It adds to the standing Rules of the Society clauses relating to combinations of steam reciprocating engines with exhaust-steam turbines, and the sanctioning of welded seams in boiler-shell plates, as well as a complete set of rules for electric propelling machinery. Various modifications are also made in existing rules for many purposes, but none of these is likely to arouse so much general interest, and perhaps discussion, as the three items mentioned.

The reference to the long-dead welds of boiler-shell seams in this bill is of sufficient interest to be quoted in full. It is thus modestly introduced:—

"Page 102, Section 14, Clause 2, has been re-written as follows:—

"2. Shell plates subject to a direct tensile stress may be welded in cases where the weld is covered by a riveted butt strap or straps. Proposals to omit butt straps may be considered provided full details are submitted before the work is commenced."

There is no reason to dwell upon the many complaints that have been levelled against British registration authorities. Lloyd's Register not excluded, because of their "wait and see" attitude towards welding in general and the welding of pressure vessels in particular. Dr. Montgomerie, the Society's Chief Ship Surveyor, speaking at the Institution of Naval Architects two years ago, succinctly expressed the position with regard to hull constructional welding. "We still require," he then said, "the same standards that we required ten years ago. We are now getting them, that is the all-important difference." Doubtless the same principle has operated in the present case. Lloyd's Rules are not based upon a special standard of performance that may be attained under special conditions, but upon what may be described as "a good merchantable brand" of practice. The new regulation may, therefore, be claimed by welding technicians as the best possible proof of the great advances that have been made in their art, and incidentally, in the methods developed for the non-destructive examination of welds.

Electric Machinery

The Rules for Electric Propelling Machinery, which will be obtainable shortly as a separate pamphlet, cover the complete equipment, whether the prime mover be a steam engine or an oil engine. For these the ordinary rules still apply, with such additional governor gear as is required to safeguard the electrical plant. The general requirements follow ordinary good class electrical practice, in such matters as insulation, ventilation, facilities for inspection, etc., with special provisions for the treatment of the insulation

The object of British Industries House, which has recently been opened at Marble Arch, London, W., is to provide a permanent exhibition of British goods and so to improve the selling power of our industries. By having the displays of manufacturers of the same class of products set out in close juxtaposition it will enable the overseas buyer, who is unwilling or too busy to visit a dozen or fifty showrooms, to inspect a representative range of the articles in which he is interested with the least possible trouble. Moreover, by providing club premises, it will enable negotiations to be conducted under the most pleasant conditions, while its position is such as to render it accessible from all parts of London.

As regards the British manufacturer two courses are open: either he can rent a showcase in the display of his goods and by so doing obtain such facilities as heating, telephones, the use of a private interviewing room and the services of competent floor managers and interpreters or, forsaking individual effort, he can combine with those who offer similar products to his own in the exhibition of the products of to sea air, the design of the lubrication system to permit of rolling to 22 deg. without spilling the oil, and means to prevent accumulations of bilge water under the machines. Switchgear is fully treated, but again substantially repeats good land practice, with the addition of paragraphs on bridge controls and the relation of lever movements to the direction of motion of lever movements to the direction of motion of the ship. Minimum lists of spare gear are specified, and tables are given for the construction of armoured, rubber-sheathed, lead-sheathed cables, etc.

his particular branch of industry, and, of course, at the same time take advantage of the ancillary services we have just mentioned. This second course has been adopted by the manufacturers of medical and surgical instruments and equipment, who have rented over 8,000 sq. ft. on the third floor of the building, where some 150 firms are displaying their goods in the way mentioned. In addition, on the ground floor there is a completely equipped ward, operating theatre and subsidiary accommodation, the whole providing the hospital buyer with an easy means of seeing what is being produced in the way of operating tables, forceps, sterilisers and electrical apparatus.

Attempts are now being made to do something of the same kind for the engineering industry. A group of exhibitors connected with the Sheffield trades have already been organised and a number of leading firms in the heavier branches of the industry have taken space. But it is felt that some rather more co-operative effort would be advisable and Mr. G. F. Dowding, A.M.I.Mech.E., has been appointed to deal with the matter. We understand from him that great interest has been shown in the scheme, but that there is still some reluctance to take the necessary steps to secure space. We hope that this obstacle will soon be overcome for it appears to us that such a display would provide an excellent weapon for combating foreign competition.

Quite apart from the convenience of the surroundings in which negotiations can be conducted, there is the added advantage that the equipment will be shown in close relationship to the products of other trades and that buyers in these fields of commerce may be easily led to take an interest in something outside though related to their own activities.

STATE OFFICIAL AS PARTNER

Disclosures On 'Plane Sales

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 12.
The Senate Committee which is inquiring into the armaments trade turned its attention to-day to the affairs of the Curtiss-Wright Export Company, whose business is to sell military planes to foreign countries.

The hearing to-day was conducted by Mr. Alger Hiss, who was lent by the National Recovery Administration, a fact which is taken in some quarters as emphasizing the interest which the Roosevelt Government is taking in the inquiry.

The witnesses were Mr. John Allard, president of the Curtiss-Wright Export Company, and Mr. W. D. Webster, a former president. A confidential letter was read purporting to show the company's attitude towards manoeuvres to get business.

The letter was from Mr. Allard to Mr. Burdette Wright, vice-president of the Curtiss-Wright Aeroplane Company—a parent company of which the Export Company is a subsidiary.

"UNETHICAL BUSINESS"

An unidentified man giving the name of Gordon Enders had applied to Mr. Burdette Wright to be appointed sales agent in China for military planes. Mr. Wright refused the request, and notified Mr. Allard, who replied as follows:

"Dear Burdette—While I realise that the ethics of the transaction are very questionable, from all I gather most Chinese business is unethical and I still think I would like to have had a chance at the Chinese business that Enders apparently had in his hand."

"This, of course, is not official, but is confidential between you and me. I do think that if Enders had come in here with cash to buy aviation equipment to be sent to China, and the State Department gave us approval, I would not care much who Enders was."

"Under present conditions we did not get the chance to make contact with him, so we can stick up our noses in the air and say we prefer not to associate with men of his calibre, but the truth of the matter is I wish we had got an order—Jack."

The company's activities in Bolivia were then described. It was alleged that the firm ensured sales of planes by employing a high Government official as a "silent partner," and that a British and Dutch firm had offered gifts to the official to try to oust the American firm.

THE TAIPIING AERODROME

Imperial Airways
To Use It?

Singapore, Sept. 21.

It is understood that Imperial Airways are considering the possibility of using the Assam Kumbhang Aerodrome at Taipung during the wet season instead of Alor Star, although nothing definite has yet been settled.

Alor Star Aerodrome is very soft in the wet season and it will be recalled that about a fortnight ago an outward bound plane suffered damage to the undercarriage on landing.

Shortly afterwards an Imperial plane flew very low over the Taipung ground to inspect the condition. This ground is regarded as of a very high standard by the Royal Air Force and the leader of the squadron that came from Iraq earlier in the year described it as one of the best he had seen in the East.

Both Penang and Kuala Lumpur are considered to be too soft for the heavy mail planes, particularly during the wet season. Possibly Penang will be all right when the ground has settled and the work that is being carried out at Kuala Lumpur should make it suitable for use by the heaviest aircraft in the near future.

The delay in regard to the Ipoh aerodrome for which the P.W.D. has completed all plans and is ready to start as soon as the money is available, is partly due to the fact that the Government, on the advice of the R.A.F., has decided to make no start until a really first class ground suitable for the heaviest mail and Service aircraft can be provided.

...TEN KEYS to Easier, Faster Adding

On the Sundstrand there is only one key marked with the numeral "1." This is the only key that can be depressed when "1" is to be entered on the machine. There's no mental selection of columns. No hopping about on the keyboard. The machine does all this automatically!

And it's the same for every figure. One "2" key, one "3" key and so on. Just ten numeral keys, so arranged that each key is always directly under the correct finger. Confusion and errors are "out." Speed and accuracy are "in."

No wonder it takes most people only a day to learn "touch" figuring on the Sundstrand, without instruction!

No wonder the Sundstrand is popular for retail counters, where easy operation is the keynote, as well as in banks, where speed is at a premium.

Attraction
"Change of Heart"

Eighteen months ago the world-famous team of Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell dissolved on the completion of "Tess of the Storm Country".

To-day, after an interlude marked by a flood of protests against the separation from screen fans and film exhibitors throughout the civilized world, these two favourites are appearing in their twelfth co-starring vehicle, "Change of Heart", at the King's Theatre.

With them appears a brilliant supporting cast, headed by James Dunn and Ginger Rogers, Beryl Mercer, Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Fluke O'Hara, Irene Franklin, Shirley Temple, Jane Darwell, and Nella Walker also have important roles.

Winfield Sheehan, vice-president and general manager of production at Fox Film, is the man responsible for Janet and Charles' professional reunion. In the new offering which brings them back to the screen, however, he has introduced two significant changes. "Change of Heart" is the first picture definitely to present Janet in a grown-up role, and it is the first to reveal the two stars in a realistic setting.

Ever since the immortal "7th Heaven", the celebrated duo appeared in films of a purely idealistic type. Since the '29 crash in particular, Mr. Sheehan has wisely avoided casting them against a depression background.

But with the country cheerfully on its way back to prosperity, and the public now in a mood to look back over the past four years with real relief, Janet and Charles abandon idealism and present brand-new portrayals to their admirers. It is a new and more mature Janet who appears in "Change of Heart", a Janet who has laid aside the juvenile aspects

THE ORIENTAL
"The Mystery Of Mr. X."

"The Mystery of Mr. X." is showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Scotland Yard, famed criminal investigating headquarters of London, for the first time in its long history, has revealed the workings of its inner mechanism.

Robert Montgomery is starred and Elizabeth Allan, beautiful English actress, plays the feminine lead. Featured players include Lewis Stone, Ralph Forbes, Henry Stephenson, Forrester Harvey, Ivan Simpson, Leonard Mudie, Alec B. Francis and Charles Irwin.

Numerous scenes in the thriller are laid inside Scotland Yard. Settings have been duplicated exactly from photographs and specifications furnished.

The exact procedure of criminal investigation is followed. London's Metropolitan Police—of which Scotland Yard is a part—tries its criminals in the Bow Street Police Court. This building also has its counterpart in the Hollywood studio, conforming exactly with the original.

Automobiles, English taxicabs, policemen's uniforms, even an English railroad Pullman is an authentic duplicate of the original. Edgar Selwyn directed the new film.

"WHERE SINNERS MEET"
For The King's Theatre

Diana Wynyard, star of "Where Sinners Meet" coming attraction at the King's Theatre, credits her opportunity to achieve histrionic fame to the excellent memory of an author-producer.

A few years ago Miss Wynyard was struggling along with the Liverpool Repertoire Company and as compensation for her efforts, she received little more than the valuable experience. One night, however, when she was playing a very small part in a play titled "Sorry You've Been Troubled", Benn W. Levy was in the audience.

Two years later, when he wrote "The Devil Passes", Levy remembered Miss Wynyard's performance and decided that she would be ideal for the leading role. She was given it, and therein she scored her first important success. Thus, in turn, resulted in another big role being given her in "Petticoat Influence" in which she had the same part that Helen Hayes played in America.

It was her work in the latter play that won her an American talking picture contract that eventually led to her leading role in "Cavalcade" in which she was co-starred with Clive Brook. "Where Sinners Meet" an adaptation of the stage success, "The Dover Road" is the second picture in which Clive Brook and Miss Wynyard have appeared together.

of her former films in favour of a womanly characterization. And the story, taken from Kathleen Norris' vivid novel of romance during the depression, "Manhattan Love Song", gives her a perfect vehicle in which to make this transition.

THE ALHAMBRA
Child of Manhattan

One of the few opportunities afforded a reviewer to turn loose on available adjectives will be presented with the first local showing of "Child of Manhattan," a Columbia screen play of New York night life, which is coming to the Alhambra Theatre on Wednesday.

Here is a vehicle which has all the ingredients to make entertainment of a fine, standard-story, suspense, drama, comedy, production value and a swell cast.

Also, in praise of "Child of Manhattan," is the fact that it brings a new Nancy Carroll to the screen, a new, bubbling, engaging personality whose portrayal of a big city dance hall hostess undoubtedly will go down as one of the finest performances in her long and varied career. No artificiality here. The little love-starved dancer of the tenements which Miss Carroll brings to you on the screen is real. She is the girl you have rubbed elbows with on the subway, or snapped at in bargain basements, or seen eating hot dogs with a relish at Coney Island. One of millions scattered through the greater cities of the nation who love just as strongly and as earnestly as anybody else.

Her story is the story of "Child of Manhattan." How for the first time in her life, love comes to her in the person of handsome John Boles, a man who belongs to an entirely different world. He, a worldly, polished gentleman, falls sincerely in love with a girl whose entire life has been confined to the four walls of a dingy back apartment.

Others making outstanding showings are Jess'e Ralph, a noted character actress from the New York stage who makes her screen debut in "Child of Manhattan"; Tyler Brooke, as an effeminate dressmaker; Clara Blandick, Gary Owen, Jane Darwell, Betty Grable, Betty Kendall and Mathew Betz.

"THE THIN MAN"
For The Queen's Theatre

It takes a detective to find the shortest road to success in motion pictures. This has been proven by many brilliant stage and screen actors who have received their acclaim from the public through their portrayals of detective roles.

The latest of these is William Powell who again rises to the heights of popularity in another detective portrayal—that of the bored sleuth, Nick Charles, in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Cosmopolitan picture, "The Thin Man" which opens to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. However, it is not the first sleuthing characterization that Powell has presented to the screen. Though he has scored many hits in the roles of polite gentleman crooks and stern civic officials, he won his greatest success in pictures as Philo Vance.

William Gillette achieved his greatest success on the stage as Sherlock Holmes. John Barrymore and Clive Brook also list among their finest screen performances their screen versions of the Sherlock Holmes character. Warner Oland was regarded as just another character actor until he was cast in his first "Charlie Chan" picture. Since then, he has repeated his "Charlie Chan" in several more pictures based upon the unique figure created by Earl Derr Bigness, and through his "Hawshaw" performances has won many finer roles in pictures.

Powell as Nick Charles, presents one of the most amusing detectives yet seen upon the screen. He has returned from the business of catching crooks, has married a wealthy woman and, against his will, is dragged into a most perplexing case, eventually solving it. Myrna Loy is co-starred in the production and the supporting cast features Maureen O'Sullivan, Nat Pendleton and Minna Gombell.

JEWEL ROBBERY
Helen Vinson The Heroine

Helen Vinson, the latest addition to Warner Bros.' list of featured players, who makes her screen debut in Warner Bros. "Jewel Robbery," at the Alhambra Theatre to-morrow, won several trophies for expert archery while she was a student at the University of Texas. She is besides an expert swimmer, horsewoman and fencer. The story is an adaptation of the play by Ladislaus Fodor in which Mary Ellis and Basil Sydney appeared on Broadway this season. Miss Vinson was most recently Charles Laughton's leading woman in "The Fatal Alibi." Earlier in the season she was seen in "Berlin," and previous to that she played opposite Philip Merivale in "Death Takes a Holiday." The complete cast of "Jewel Robbery," which co-stars William Powell and Kay Francis, includes Harde, Henry Kolker, Allan Nowhray, Leo Kohlmar, Lawrence Grant, Charles Coleman, Spencer Charters, Andre Laguet, Robert Grigg and Ruth Donnelly.

TOGETHER AGAIN
Charles Farrell And Janet Gaynor

Even though she never had time to do any globe-trotting until two years ago, Janet Gaynor is a surprisingly good authority on foreign countries, and foreign customs.

The dainty Fox Film star has made 18 pictures since her immortal "7th Heaven", and a good proportion of them have had foreign locales. "7th Heaven" itself had a Parisian background, and others were set in Naples, Berlin, Holland, Ireland, Austria, China and Hawaii. Of her American-made films the settings have varied between the Middle West and the Atlantic seaboard, and the New England coast and the lower Mississippi.

In "Change of Heart", opening at the King's Theatre to-day, the background shifts from California to New York City, with a transcontinental airplane journey as one of its colourful features.

WIDOWER OF STELLA BENSON

To Marry Admiral's Daughter
(Special Air Mail Service)
London, Sept. 12.

It is announced that Mr. James Carew O'Gorman Anderson, the husband of Miss Stella Benson, the novelist, is to re-marry. Miss Benson died last December.

Mr. Anderson's wedding will shortly take place to Miss Ivy Violet Cayley, younger daughter of Admiral G. C. Cayley and Mrs. Cayley, of Low Treowarden Wadebridge, Cornwall. Mr. Anderson is the only surviving son of the late Brig-Gen. Sir Francis Anderson and Lady Anderson of Ballyday, County Waterford.

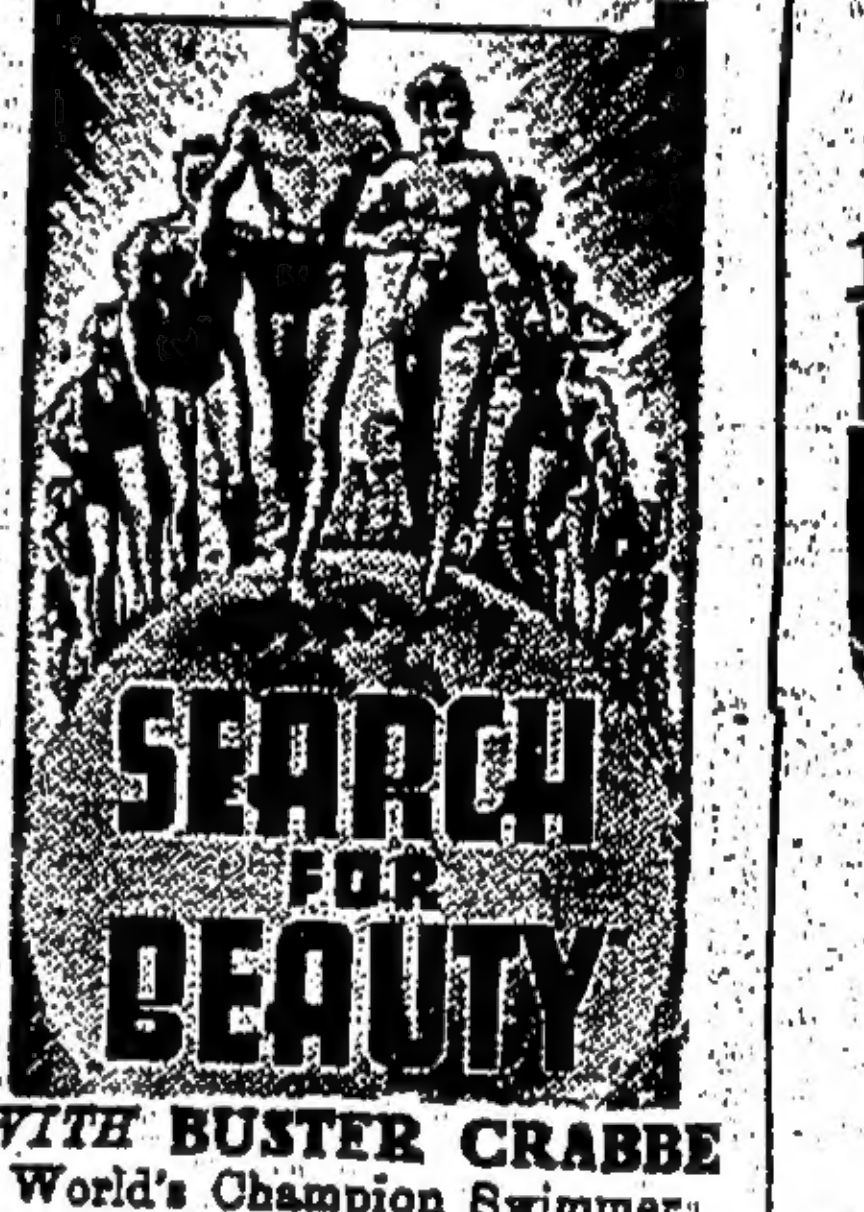

Mr. Anderson married Miss Benson in 1921, while an official in the Chinese Customs Service. In her will, Miss Benson expressed the desire that her husband should present her diaries to the University of Cambridge to be dealt with as they think fit, but not made public until after the lapse of fifty years. She kept the diaries from the age of five and the volumes, believed to number between twenty and thirty, each had a lock. When a volume was completed it was locked and the key thrown away.

NOEL COWARD'S ADVENTURE

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 7.
Goat's flesh and lobsters have been the staple diet of Mr. Noel Coward, England's marooned playwright, who has been stranded for two days in Corsica.

Mr. Coward had been cruising in the yacht Mairi and had landed at Ile Rousse, a lonely fishing village on the north coast of Corsica.

A storm blew up and Mr. Coward saw his yacht carried away by the storm. It was hurled on to the rocks 70 miles away. All his personal belongings were in the yacht, including his passport.

This he managed to recover, states Reuter.

Left helpless without funds or clothes, Mr. Coward cabled his manager in London, Mr. John Wilson, for assistance.

Then one of the wealthiest men in the theatre world went into lodgings in the village and waited for things to happen. The regular foods of the people in the village were goat's flesh and shell fish.

He spoke on the telephone to Paris. He said: "I have got my passport all right, and I am leaving for England by the steamer Ile de Beaute, which calls here to-day. I shall return via Paris and be in London to-morrow evening."

CABLED FUNDS

"I was not on board the yacht at the time of the storm," Mr. Coward continued. "I had gone ashore."

The yacht is considered to be a total wreck.

Mr. John Wilson received a shock when he got Mr. Coward's cable. He immediately cabled funds to Corsica.

Mr. Noel Coward had chartered the yacht Mairi from her owner, Mr. Claude Grahame-White, for a holiday cruise round the Mediterranean Islands.

YOUR VIEWS AND MINE!

A Weekly Column of Local Gossip

By "The Scout"

DR. DOUGLAS LAING.

Dr. Douglas Laing, M.B., B.S., D.L.O. (Eng.), as just returned to the Colony. He arrived on the Empress of Asia, having returned to Hong Kong from London via America. Dr. Laing, who as readers may be aware, is a local boy, spent two years on post-graduate work in London on diseases of the nose and throat. He was an assistant at the Central London Throat Hospital and also at Guy's Hospital. Dr. Laing it will be recalled was one of the front rank swimmers in the Colony a few years ago and while in England played water polo for Guy's and became very popular amongst the members of several swimming clubs. His return to the Colony will mean a distinctive gain to the V.R.C., as he is now far more experienced in aquatics than hitherto. I am certain that his many friends will be glad to see him back. Before leaving Hong Kong he was house surgeon and house obstetrician at the Government Civil Hospital and at one time was Assistant Government Bacteriologist and Assistant Medical Officer of Schools.

SIR ROBERT RETURNING

Another prominent person who will be returning to the Colony to-day will be Sir Robert Ho Tung, who is due with Lady Ho Tung on the "Conte Verde." Sir Robert last year underwent one operation in England and another in Switzerland, and I am informed that he has made remarkable recovery and is returning hale and hearty. Sir Robert enjoys the esteem of a large circle of friends with whom we join in extending him a warm welcome.

PHOTOGRAPH EXHIBITION

I cannot too strongly urge those who have not done so to pay a visit to the photographic exhibition that is now going on at the University in the Union Assembly Room. Pictures are on view there which have come from amateurs all over the world and if one were to spend a little time over the exhibits quite a delightful hour can be had examining both the skill and art of the photographer and the advance in photographic science. The pictures, having been subjected to a careful process of selection by the Committee, represent the cream of some five hundred exhibits and the standard reached is very high. If you are interested in photography at all, pay the exhibition a visit.

WANCHAI MARKET

Readers will have noticed from the report of the Debate on the Budget that the sum of $80,000 is allocated in next year's estimates towards the building of a new market at Wanchai. The growth of this part of the Colony is proceeding at a terrific pace. Not many years ago those who lived at Wanchai had to come to the city for any little thing they required. To-day Wanchai has its own post office, fire station, a modern police station, a massive hotel, dance halls, dispensaries, and half a dozen markets. It also has a very good Theatre and before long a Church is to be built on the plot of ground opposite the old Seamen's Institute. The growth of Wanchai is not unlike that of Kowloon. In the case of the latter the City grew in dimension whereas in the case of Wanchai, it grew in importance.

PETITION FOR REPRIEVE

I am informed that it is hoped to obtain as many as five hundred signatures upon the petition to be presented to His Excellency the Governor for the reprieve of Kwong Chi-Pan, a Chinese Christian who was sentenced to death at the last Criminal Sessions upon being found guilty of the Murder of woman at 21 Lai-chik Road. Those who wish to sign the petition will find copies of it in English and Chinese at all principal public places including the theatres and the leading stores.

KOWLOON C.C. MEETING

New Officers
Elected

The annual general meeting of the Kowloon Cricket Club was held yesterday evening in the ballroom when the Hon. Mr. R. E. Lindsell, President of the Club presided and was supported by Mr. Ezra Abraham, Vice-President and Messrs. E. C. Fincher, F. E. Nash, R. P. Phillips (Asst. Secretary), C. I. Stapleton, A. E. Silkstone, V. C. Labrum, and G. A. White.

The President in his speech dealt with the various aspects of sport in which the Club participated and made reference to the serious loss in their cricket team by leg injuries to Mr. F. Goodwin. The accounts were very satisfactory and showed a balance of income over expenditure of nearly $700.

A scheme for further development between the Clubhouse and the bowling green was at present occupying the attention of several enthusiastic members of the bowls and tennis sections and would be put forward for consideration to the incoming committee.

Referring to the Balance Sheet the President drew attention to a sum of over $3,000 as due from members on July 31 last. He stressed the necessity of making a firmer stand by the Committee with regard to this item.

Office Bearers

President: Hon. Mr. R. E. Lindsell. Vice-President: Mr. Ezra Abraham. Hon. Secretary: Mr. E. C. Fincher. Asst. Hon. Secretary: Mr. R. P. Phillips. Hon. Treasurer: Mr. F. G. Maundrell. Bowls Representative: Mr. C. J. Tacchi. Vice-Captain of Cricket: Mr. F. A. Munn.

public can follow the progress of the competition. Special scoring cards will be embodied in the programmes.

Tent Pegging

The tent-pegging event is sure to provide keen competition as already some of the best local talent have indicated their intention to participate. Watching the practice the other day I saw one man show great skill in this particular line. I am informed that he was a member of the Life Guards before coming out to Hong Kong.

Another likely winner of this event is Lt. E.K.M. Meade who is now attached to the M.G.T. He also displayed his ability during recent practice. Captain A. P. Potts, Sergeant Major R. H. Charles and Sgt. Crawford are others who might do well in this line.

Handy Hunter

Of the simpler competitions referred to there will be Musical Chairs and the Handy Hunter. The latter is a good display and if properly done can be quite attractive. Some of the ponies I have seen at practice have proved themselves very good jumpers.

Cups for Winners

The former Commandant of the Volunteers, Col. L. G. Bird has presented a cup for the most efficient military performer in the sports, while Col. Dowbiggin, the present Commandant has also presented a cup, which I am informed, will be presented to the competitor who scores the highest aggregate points during the afternoon.

The sports will commence promptly at 2.30 and at the conclusion, Lady Peel will distribute the prizes. Major General O. O. Portrett and a number of military and Naval Officers will attend the Gymkhana and some of them will serve as judges.

For The Kiddies

The smartest turnout of children is expected and some of the youngsters ride quite well. Of those I have seen recently, I can say that they are absolutely wonderful on horseback for they can trot, canter and govern their ponies very well. I think that there will be at least twenty five children entered for the sports. Special provisions for the "kiddies" are being made. One hundred and fifty toy balloons and a number of rubber toys will be heaped up in the middle of the ground and at a given signal the kiddies could help themselves to the toys to their hearts' content. The 35 balls to be used in the "Goofy Polo" will also be heaped amongst the toys so that there will be plenty for all the youngsters who attend.

Incidentally the Hon. Mr. E. Gordon Mackie and Mr. A. J. P. Heard will judge the competitions in which children will take part.

BUS CONDUCTORS CONVICTED

For Possessing Spurious Coins

For possessing and uttering counterfeit Hong Kong ten cent pieces, Loi Sang and Wong Fun, two bus conductors were yesterday sentenced at the Kowloon Magistracy to three months hard labour each.

Det. Sergt. J. F. Kennedy stated that on Wednesday at 8.15 a.m., on information received, he raided the first floor of 587, Shanghai Street, and in the rear cubicle he saw the two defendants sleeping. There was also another man in the cubicle, but he was not arrested.

In the cubicle, a Chinese detective picked up a leather suitcase, which was claimed by the first defendant, and upon being opened, it was found to contain fifteen counterfeit Hongkong ten-cent pieces.

A conductor's uniform was found hanging on the wall and in the pockets were found ten counterfeit Hongkong ten-cent pieces. These were claimed by Wong Fun, who stated that had been bought by him from a man named Yin Hung, for fifty cents. This man could not be found.

In the left hand pocket of another pair of trousers, found in the cubicle, seven more counterfeit ten-cent pieces were found, and were claimed by the first defendant. They were both arrested and taken to the Mongkok Police Station, and the coins were sent to the Government Analyst.

"Local persons, if they handed in a dollar, were likely to get only one of these ten-cent pieces," said Detective-Sergeant Kennedy, "but a person from the country, who handed in a five dollar bill, was very likely to receive four or five of them in his change."

Admitting a charge of loitering on the first floor of No. 5 Heung Hing Lane on Tuesday, Yeung Chung-cheung, unemployed, was sentenced to three months' hard labour by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen, at the Central Magistracy yesterday. Detective Sergeant Fowle said defendant was seen entering No. 5 Heung Hing Lane, ground floor, by a woman, who sent a folk to arrest him. The folk went up the stairs, and found defendant hanging on to a water pipe, unable to go up or come down. Defendant was a banished, from Singapore.

"I picked the tools up in a street in Kowloon and brought them to Hongkong," pleaded Sze. To-hip, unemployed, when charged before Mr. Macfadyen, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, with unlawful possession of a spanner, a jack and a grease gun at Lower Lascar Row. Detective Sergeant Fowle said defendant was arrested by a District Watchman trying to sell the tools. They were quite good tools, and had apparently been recently used. Mr. Macfadyen convicted and sentenced defendant to three weeks' hard labour.

"You did very well," said Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, when he commended Leung Sang, the master of a cold drink shop of 33, Shantung Street, for his action in chasing and arresting Li Ming, a 32-year-old hawk, when he snatched a purse from Pu Ch', a married woman of 10, Yee Chau Street.

His Worship sentenced the defendant to four months' hard labour, and ordered him to be given 12 strokes with the birch.

Everything points to a huge success on October 13, so if anyone wants to be sure of a seat, they can obtain tickets from members of the M.G.T. Members Enclosure tickets at $2 and other tickets are $1. Servicemen, whether in uniform or not will be admitted at half price, but those attending in mufti are requested to bring the necessary badges.

A band will be in attendance during the afternoon and tea and refreshments will be in the able hands of Messrs. Lane Crawford's

M. G. T. GYMKHANA PROSPECTS

Interesting Competitions Fixed For October 13

(BY "MORNING DEW")

The Machine Gun Troop of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps are sparing no efforts to stage an attractive gymkhana on October 13 at the Polo Ground and preliminary indications are that their efforts will be rewarded with unqualified success.

A programme of nine events has been drawn up and the Committee have made novelty the keynote of the programme. As however, some of the intending competitors are not experienced riders a couple of comparatively easy events have been embodied.

In must not be assumed that only members of the Machine Gun Troop will be participating. The programme calls for events open to the public generally, and ladies and even children will be taking part. Only one event will be confined entirely to members of the Machine Gun Troop.

Some Novel Events Planned

Everybody who intends to take part in the gymkhana is practising very hard. One of the most attractive items will be the Tandem Trailer Competition, something which is absolutely new in Hong Kong. Already some of the ladies are showing good prospects of winning by their ability to stand on the boards during the time they are being carried around by the tandem pairs. There are sure to be spills as it is no easy matter to get the pairs to run together, but here is absolutely no danger of anyone getting injured.

Goofy Polo
Another novelty will be "Goofy Polo" in which gentlemen will play with their left hands while ladies in the match will play in the ordinary way. Some of the ladies during training have shown that they are adepts at the game and there is plenty of fun ahead when this event comes off.

An Archery Competition has been arranged. This calls for skill on the part of the competitors and promises to be a spectacular event. A target, which stands ten feet high and painted in the colours of the Volunteers (red, yellow and black) has been prepared. As each competitor gallops past he will be required to shoot his arrow at the target and the score will be "semaphored" so that the

HONG KONG'S PUBLIC WORKS

Annual Report Issued By Director

The Report of the Director of Public Works for the year 1933 which is at hand, contains a wealth of information covering eleven sub-departments which include the Accounts and Stores, Architectural, Buildings, Ordinance, Crown Lands and Surveys, Drainage, Electrical, Port Development, Roads and Transport, Valuations and Resumptions, Waterworks Construction and Waterworks Maintenance offices.

During the year under review several buildings of importance were erected and works completed, these include the Crematorium at Kai Lung Wan Cemetery, an addition to the Kowloon Hospital comprising a new Ward Block and a House, for a second European Medical officer, a Venereal Disease Clinic at Kowloon, the new Wireless Broadcasting Station at Hung Hom, Kowloon, the Lady Ho Tung Infant Welfare Centre at Fanling, the provision of tanks for the storage of fish at the Central Market and the adoption of the old Salubrious Home and Seamen's Institute, Wanchai, for offices.

The most important of the works under construction were the site formation of the New Government Civil Hospital at Pokfulam, the Governor's residence at Fanling, the site preparation for the new gaol at Stanley and the preparation of four playing grounds for children.

Communications also played a large part in the programme, works under construction being the first section of the new 75 foot road, between Causeway Bay and the Mins Yuen Gardens, a new road to the beaches south-east of Repulse Bay and the new road from Island Road to Stanley.

Under Drainage, new sewers and storm water-drains were constructed in Hong Kong and in Kowloon to a length of 29,139 feet. Anti-malarial campaign work was continued at Mount Parker Stanley, Sookunpo, and Lyemun and a commencement was made at Kowloon Tong.

Water Works
Several important works were carried out in the Waterworks Department, a covered service reservoir of 208,000 gallons capacity was constructed on Jardine's Look-out to supply high level development, while the new five million gallons service reservoir at Yau-mai Hill was nearly completed. The Public Gardens Service Reservoir completed the first section of the Shing Mun Valley Water-Scheme.

Improved traffic control lights, the construction of two self-supporting wireless masts at Hung

Hom, Reclamation and the transferring of the Broadcasting Set to the new site, were the most important items under Electrical Works.

The building industry continued to evince considerable activity throughout 1933 but failed to reach the level of the previous year.

European type flats of moderate rental were a feature of the year's construction, although Chinese tenement property was still the largest factor. During the year 259 European Houses were completed, while the number of Chinese houses was 832.

The new Sailors' Home and Seamen's Institute, and a large Chinese Hotel, were completed during the year under review.

The total valuations made during the year 1933 comprised 2,943 properties with a total estimated value of $11,245,606.25.

About 3,653 acres of the harbour were surveyed, reduced, and plotted by the end of the year. This area together with previous surveys brings the area of the harbour surveyed on fixed lines to a total of approximately 8,812 acres, leaving a balance of approximately 2,188 acres to be surveyed.

TOWN PLANNING

Under Town Planning, the general lines of development recommended by the Town Planning Committee of 1922 were followed with minor amendment in detail. The Development of Kowloon Tsi, in accordance with the plan referred to in the 1932 report, was commenced.

During the year development plans for the sites of Government House and the Government offices were prepared. The Scheme referred to in para. 56 of the Annual Report for 1931 was reconsidered and several alternatives to it were prepared with estimates. The one approved removed the proposed Government Offices to a site on a higher level near the Peak Tram Station and provides a site for a new City Hall at the junction of Queen's Road and Ice House Street, and as a result the density of development was considerably reduced as compared with the 1931 plan.

EXPENDITURE

The expenditures on Public Works has grown very considerably during the last three decades, states the report.

The average annual expenditure during the years 1904 to 1913 was $1,969,550, from 1914 to 1923 it was $3,774,100 whilst from 1924 to 1933 the average annual expenditure has been $8,870,850.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY

Mr. A. S. MacKichan Elected Chieftain

The annual general meeting of the St. Andrew's Society was held at the board room of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co. Ltd. last evening. Mr. A. S. MacKichan was in the chair and was supported by Dr. G.D.R. Black, Mr. A. Stevenson, Mr. H. H. Forsyth, Mr. W. Kay, Mr. E. S. Morrison, Dr. J. C. MacGowan, Mr. J. B. Ross, Mr. Wylie, Mr. E. M. Bryden, and Mr. D. S. Robb (Joint Hon. Secretaries).

In moving the adoption of the report and statement of accounts, the Chairman Mr. A. S. MacKichan said:

In the absence of our President, Mr. Shields I devolves upon me to render an account of the activities of the Society during the past year.

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

It is with regret that we have to record the deaths during the past year of the following members: Messrs. R. Mein Austin, J. Dalziel, J. Johnstone, A. M. F. Simpson, Capt. A. H. Stewart, Messrs. J. M. Stewart, J. M. Walker and Robert Shewan.

The Accounts

Turning to the accounts our balance sheet is still in a healthy state. You will notice the reduction in interest received, whereby our 6% Government Loan holding was converted into 4%. Calls for charities and for assistance have not been as heavy as last year when it is satisfactory when one considers the wave of depression which is over the Colony at present. The Ball Account shows a slight loss even after the transfer of the balance over from the Burns Dinner account.

The J.R.M. Smith Scholarships were awarded this year to Masters K. Baxter and W. Pryde and to whom our congratulations are due on their success.

Social Activities

Turning to our Social Activities the Annual Ball was held on St. Andrew's Day, and was, in the opinion of all, a great success. The Burns Dinner was held on January 25 and the Immortal Memory was ably proposed by Sir William Hornell, who despite the fact that he comes from O'er the Border succeeded in bringing out all the sentiment of our National Bard and had expended a lot of time and trouble in acquiring the proper doric in which to render his quotations.

The Scottish Company of the Volunteers continues to flourish under the leadership of Captain Forsyth. Their only trouble is the small support received, and I would voice the appeal recently made for new members of the Corps and in particular in our case to the Scottish Company.

Members can assist in two ways to this Colony namely by seeing that they first of all join this Society and then endeavouring to get them to join the Scottish Company. Speaking as an old Member of this Society and one of the original members of the Company I feel that membership of these two bodies is of the greatest assistance to all young Scots coming here in order to maintain the Old Scottish traditions and memories by mixing with his ain kith and kin.

I would like on behalf of Mr. Shields to express to our joint Secretaries his thanks and also the thanks of the Society for their unremitting hard work. I cannot help feeling that members can have no idea of the vast amount of real hard work which falls upon their willing and fortunately broad shoulders.

With these remarks, Gentlemen, I beg to propose the adoption of the Report and Accounts for the past year. (Applause).

Mr. Wylie Smith seconded and the motion was carried unanimously.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The election of officers was then proceeded with.

In proposing Mr. MacKichan to be President and Chieftain of the Society for the ensuing year, Dr. G.D.R. Black said that Mr. MacKichan had been an active member of the Society and had been Vice-Chieftain for the past year. He was sure that if Mr. MacKichan were to be Chieftain, he would do everything he could for the good of the Society.

The proposal was seconded by Mr. A. Stevenson and carried with acclamation.

Vice-President: Dr. J. C. MacGowan.

General Committee: Messrs. N. M. Currie, H. R. Forsyth, W. Kay, His Honour Mr. A.D.A. MacGregor, Messrs. R. M. McVay, K. S. Morrison, A. Ritchie and E. Wylie.

Joint Hon. Secretaries and Treasurers: Messrs. E. M. Bryden and D. S. Robb.

It was decided that St. Andrew's Day be celebrated as usual. In thanking the members for electing him as Chieftain, Mr. MacKichan said that it was one of the highest honours they had got in the Colony and he was the first member of the Scottish Company to become Chieftain of the Society. He assured the members that he would do his best to enhance the good work of the Society. He concluded by proposing a vote of thanks to the retiring Chieftain, Mr. A. L. Shields and to Messrs. Jardine, Matheson for the loan of the Board room.

SEQUEL TO COLLISION

European Fined $25

For driving without due care and caution in Wongneichong Gap Road, H. H. Mueller was fined $25 by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Magistracy yesterday. The defendant was also charged with failing to stop after coming into collision with another car.

In evidence, Mr. A. E. Thompson stated that he was driving his car No. 3387 up Wongneichong Gap Road at 4.45 p.m. on September 9. As he was about to go round a bend, a car came round a corner at what he considered to be an excessive speed and on the wrong side of the road. A collision seemed unavoidable, and witness swerved his car to the left. The other car also swerved, but the collision could not be avoided, witness car being damaged on the left cap, front mudguard, right hand and back mudguard. At the time of the collision witness car was actually on the gutter.

Corroborative evidence was given by Mr. J. Smith, who was a passenger on the complainant's car.

His Worship convicted defendant on both counts and imposed a fine of $25 on the first summons. A caution was given on the other.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the American Club where felicitations were tendered to the happy couple by a large number of friends.

COST OF ADMINISTRATION

With His Excellency the Governor we agree that the Budget for 1935 is "the grave of many hopes." The demand for lesser taxation made by several members is met once again with the argument that we are lightly taxed and should not expect a "cut" in the existing taxes. This stand is not a new one. We have been too often reminded that the Colony is not heavily burdened by taxation and presumably from the official point of view the Colony should be thankful that it is being allowed to go about with only such a light load!

In a year where drastic measures are being adopted to cope with the unusual conditions of prevailing trade, where some of the biggest business and banking houses are adopting measures of economy, we are told that the cost of administration cannot be reduced. We do most earnestly reiterate the arguments of the Unofficial members in their plea for lesser taxation, for it is in the past five years that fresh taxes have been introduced and older taxes increased. In this connection we should like to quote the very interesting remarks which the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall made at the Council Meeting. According to that honourable gentleman: "It is a matter of grave concern that when the Colony is passing through an economic depression, the cost of administration is nevertheless increasing. When no signs of improvement are visible, the cost of administration should actually be on the increase. In times like these one naturally expects to see the cost of administration kept down, if not cut down. Here it is actually increased. Instead of continuing to spend large and to

OBITUARY

Former Resident Dies At Home

(Special Air Mail Service)
London, Sept. 12.
Old residents will learn with regret the death of Mr. Charles Wedderburn Dickson, which occurred at his residence, Friars Carse, Dumfriesshire, on August 5.

The late Mr. Dickson who was 71 years old was educated at Lochmaben Parish School, serving for a short time with a firm of chartered accountants in Edinburgh, and with a firm of Leith wool merchants and London tea brokers. He left for the East in 1884 and joined the firm of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., Ltd., later becoming a partner.

He was a member of the Legislative and Executive Councils in Hongkong, returning to Dumfriesshire in 1906, and bought Friars Carse in 1910. He is survived by his wife, a son and three daughters.

TYPHOON WARNING

The American Consulate received a message yesterday from Manila which stated that at 3.20 p.m. a typhoon was in about 123 degrees Longitude East and 14 degrees Latitude North. The typhoon was then moving North-West.

creasing sums on personnel, the Government should, I respectfully submit, make some reduction on taxation to lessen the weight of depression that presses on the Colony." This observation strikes us as perfectly justifiable and coming as it does from the senior Chinese member, it has the added force of being the opinion of one who has his fingers upon the very pulse of the life blood of the Colony. The Hon. Dr. Kotewall and his colleagues represent the joint views of the Chinese community and it is to be feared, from a reading of the speeches of the Chinese members of the Council that their view undoubtedly is that the administrative work in this Colony costs too much.

To come now to the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga. His absence from the debate was deplored and we join the Colonial Secretary in hoping that he will be speedily restored to health. Like Dr. Kotewall, Mr. Braga has much to criticize on the same question. He finds the Government has shown no practical sympathy in the difficult times through which the Colony is passing. He describes any reduction in the cost of administration as a "legitimate hope" of the taxpayer. We submit he could not possibly have put the case higher than that.

It is more than a coincidence that both Mr. Braga and Mr. Kotewall should speak in almost the same key upon the question of the cost of administration on the one hand and rates on the other. It seems a pity that the submissions of Dr. Kotewall did not find a more favourable reception from official quarters. His suggested measures for combating the depression may cut a big hole in the Colony's reserves, but as the reserves are there for a "rainy day" what matters if some of it is used now, when admittedly we are going through, not a shower of rain, but a cloudburst, unprecedented in the Colony's history?

Last it should be thought that Dr. Kotewall and Mr. Braga were the only members to raise a voice against the cost of administration. It is as well to draw attention to the fact that the Hon. Mr. C. Gordon Mackie also criticized the subject in these very succinct words: "We all realize that economies must be introduced, but these should be in the nature of a reduction in the cost of administration rather than a postponement of Public Works Extraordinary."

We suppose that nothing can be done now with regard to the 1935 Estimates, but there is good ground for thinking that in spite of explanations and arguments to the contrary, there still lurks in the minds of some unofficial members that the cost of administration might be reduced and at the same time some amelioration in taxation might have been provided.

Sixteen Million Dollar Loan Arranged

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Shanghai, Sept. 28.
An agreement for a sixteen million dollar railway loan between a Banking Syndicate and the Chekiang-Kiangsi Joint Railway Company was examined and approved after a two days' meeting at the Bank of China office.

The loan is for the purpose of construction of the Yushan-Pinhsiang Railway against the security of the first issue of the Railways Construction loan and the Yushan-Pinhsiang Railway loan of twelve million dollars each, bearing interest at 10 per cent. and redeemable in five years.

The Banking Syndicate will advance half the amount, namely the Bank of China $3,750,000, the Kinchen Bank $1,500,000, the Shanghai Commercial Savings Bank $1,000,000, the National Commercial Bank $500,000, the Sin Hua Trust Savings Bank $500,000, the Yulin Bank $500,000, the Postal Remittance Savings $250,000. The other half will be advanced through a syndicate from a German company supplying railway materials.

Tenders have been opened for the construction of the Yushan-Nanchang section of 340 kilometers for completion by the end of next year and then the Nanchang-Pinhsiang section of 300 kilometers. It is reported that part of the material is under way from Germany who have provisionally advanced over four million dollars.

GANGSTERS PURSUED BY POLICE

Sensational Discovery In Paris

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Paris, Sept. 27.
A great sensation was caused here by the news that two well-known gangsters have been found dead in a first class carriage of an express train from Ventimiglia to Paris. The gruesome discovery was made when the train, forced by unforeseen circumstances, shunted at the little station of Montgeron Crosne.

Investigation showed that the death of the gangsters must have been dramatic, a violent struggle taking place when one man was murdered and the other then shot himself. Both men were mixed up in the Lille police scandal and had been hotly pursued by the police for some days past.

NO RESTRICTIONS

On Film Stars Salaries

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 7.
Officials of the National Recovery Administration had today to solve one of the most delicate problems which has ever faced them—determining whether film stars' salaries are excessive.

Mr. Bol Rosenblatt reported to Gen. Johnson, the N.R.A. chief, that the film industry, after detailed investigation, has decided that cinema producers themselves are the best judges of what individual stars are worth.

"Stars are worth as much as the public can be led to believe," said Mr. Rosenblatt.

"If the producers themselves find it difficult to gauge in advance the possible value of a star, it is impossible for the code authority to exercise any more effective judgment in the matter."

Benny Yorston Sets A New Puzzle At Middlesbrough: Brentford's Home From Home

(Special Air-Mail Service).

London, Sept. 7.

No Yorston Yawns.—When the Middlesbrough directors learned that Coleman would not be able to play against Leeds in the opening match, they groaned and cringed a fate that had deprived them first of Camsell and then of the man bough to succeed him: Little Benny Yorston was hardly thought of, yet he came into the team and gained a great personal triumph by getting a brilliant hat-trick and playing "one of his finest games. What's going to happen when Yorston, Camsell and Coleman are all available?

Dan McReire, formerly outside-right with Morton and Liverpool, has signed for Runcorn, a Cheshire League team.

Sydney Dickinson, the Port Vale left half-back, who has joined Lincoln, is the same player who helped Bradford to promotion from the Northern Section six years ago.

Weeks before the season opened we told you that Swansea would sign John Harris, the seventeen-year-old son of Mr. Neil Harris, the club manager. He signed a few days ago.

We can't help finding out things. This time we are a year in advance. The Australian F.A. will send a representative team to play a series of tests in England, Ireland and Scotland next season.

Albion Rovers are too keen on doing well in the Scottish League to listen to offers for players at the moment. That is why Chelsea may draw a blank if they decide to go after right-half Donnelly.

Manager David Pratt, of Clapton Orient, is justly proud of his reserve team. Last week they drew against Chelsea reserves at Stamford Bridge. Yet the Orient colts have yet to each attain their twentieth birthday.

The man who won the Northern Section Cup for Darlington, Dan Cassidy (he scored the winning goal against Stockport) is likely to be out of the game for some time. The injury he got against York last week-end is more serious than was at first thought.

Poor Appreciation.—Just too bad; barely 7,000 spectators at the Celtic V. Rangers game in the week for the benefit of Jim McGroarty, the famous Celtic forward. McGroarty has actually scored 418 goals during his stay with the Scottish club. He surely deserved a better gate.

A Queer Mixture.—Rhyll presents a queer mixture. A Welsh club, it plays in an English league, the Birmingham League, and the majority of the players in the side are Scotsmen. The star of these is James Tunbull, an East Strling's list at £1,500, and somewhat fancied by Huddersfield.

Another Boy Martin.—Plymouth have had their leg pulled about their centre-forward recruit from Ireland, Clarke. The wits remarked to Manager Bob Jack: "There cannot be two Boffy Martins in Ireland." Well, Clarke scored five goals in his first game in the Southern League last week. So there may be two Boy Martins after all!

A Good Man Wasted.—Our League clubs must be very well off for defenders if they can allow a talented man like Jasper Kerr, the old Preston and Everton player, to join up with non-Leaguers in Lancaster Town. Jasper, who can play equally well in either back position, had a strange experience last season. He was out of the game and working as a commercial traveller when New Brighton sent for him and he skipped them.

Leave It To Me.—Thus quoth Jack Milson, the Bolton centre-forward, when warned that he would have to look slippery unless he wanted to lose his place to Chambers, the new marksman from Halifax. "And Milson, guilty of many costly errors in front of goal last season, proceeded against Oldham to show that he is going to make amends this time. He positively scintillated, and one of his impossible angle goals simply left players and crowd gasping. Chambers will have a long wait on this form.

Just Like Home.—It must have been exactly like playing on their own midden for the Brentford boys when they tackled Newcastle at St. James's Park yesterday. The already large contingent of former Middlesbrough men in the first eleven has been added to now that Mathieson has got his place in goal preference to Nicholls, the former Manchester City "keeper. Old pals and cousins, aunts, etc., would help join in one glorious re-union, and if that didn't give Brentford the right atmosphere we don't know what else could.

As Ordered.—On behalf of Manager Charlie Hewitt, of Chester, we promised you a great Chester revival year, and sure enough it has come. The Chester that kicked off by soundly trouncing Gateshead in the North-East, and then paying another visit to the same locality and whipping Hartlepool is the Chester that shaped like promotion winners two years ago. The funny thing is that although he has played quite well in these games, Wesley, last season's scoring expert, has not netted one of the half-dozen standing to the side's credit. Sargeant, a winger from Hull, is proving a real find, however.

Mick The Marvel.—Mick McCarthy, Sheffield United's new goal-keeper, has set all Yorkshire talking with his wonderful displays. He first appeared at Bramall Lane in May last, when in the final of the Dugan Cup between Sheffield United and Shamrock Rovers he stood between the Sheffield club and a hatful of goals. His display on this occasion did not pass unnoticed, and the Sheffield club were soon seeking his transfer. He made his first appearance in English League football against Derby Reserves last week-end, and played "blinder." This week he was promoted to the senior side who journeyed to Bradford, and again played a "blinder" in Sheffield United's big victory over Bradford City.

Chalmers, of Manchester United, may shortly be seen in the Nottingham Forest front line. The size of the transfer fee is the only thing holding up negotiations.

Well satisfied with their Cunliffe bargain, Aston Villa have "come again" in the hope of inducing Blackburn to part with Brennan, their much-improved inside-left.

GERMAN OFFER TO LANCASTHIRE

Debt To Be Repaid Over A Year

(Special Air Mail Service)

Manchester, Sept. 12.

Germany has made an offer to Lancashire spinners to repay the outstanding commercial debts by instalments spread over a period of twelve months.

This is the outcome of last week's conference in Berlin between a Lancashire delegation and representatives of the German importers.

Details of the offer were given by Sir George Holden, head of the British delegation, to a large meeting of Lancashire spinners in Manchester this afternoon.

The offer is regarded as the best that can be obtained in the present circumstances. It was discussed by the meeting for two and a half hours, at the end of which the conference adjourned so that several points could be elucidated.

For the purpose of the new agreement both the English and German delegations assumed the total of overdue accounts to be 3,200,000 reichsmarks, equal to £267,000.

ORGANISATION OF SAAR PREBISCITE

League Council To Call Extraordinary Meeting

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.))

Geneva, Sept. 27. The Saar question occupied the attention of the League of Nations Council on Thursday afternoon. The chairman of the Committee of Three, Aolst submitted a report about the preparatory work and accomplishment. Aolst emphasized that the maintenance of public order necessitated the reinforcement of police so that the Committee of three would apply to the French and German governments for the necessary financial resources.

Thereupon, M. Barthou read aloud a lengthy declaration to the effect that the committee's work consisted of two parts, 1, the preparation of the plebiscite, 2, the questions that would arise after the plebiscite. Barthou said he regretted profoundly that so far no solution to the problem of maintenance of order in the Saar is found because the reports of the Saar Governing Commission showed that the situation is grave. France, said Barthou, is specially interested on this matter because she might be placed in such a situation that she is obliged to take special responsibilities. To avoid this, the Saar Governing Commission must have financial means for strengthening the police. Moreover, before the plebiscite, voters must know clearly what would be their position, if they voted for the prolongation of the present Saar regime. It was the duty of the League Council to make its position clear. The task is urgent so that the voters will know exactly what each solution foreseen by the plebiscite means. This question, concluded Barthou, must be settled at an extraordinary League Council session in November.

FRENCH RIGHTS

Geneva, Sept. 27. France will not hesitate for a moment to send armed forces into the Saar to restore or maintain order, declared M. Barthou, French Foreign Minister, who read a carefully prepared address before the League of Nations Council today. This was contrary to his usual practice of extemporaneous speaking, and therefore particular importance is attached to his speech. France, asserted the Foreign Minister, had renounced none of her rights in the Saar. She would, of course, abide by the plebiscite decision.

But, if the Governing Commission in the Saar lacks a police force necessary to ensure impartiality in the plebiscite, France is ready to supply it, M. Barthou promised.

GERMAN COMMENT

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.))

Berlin, Sept. 28. M. Barthou's speech at Geneva on the Saar question in which he hinted at the possibility of a situation arising in the Saar region which might compel France to assume special responsibilities, elicits comments from German semi-official news agencies which state that "if Barthou this time does not encourage the Saar Governor, Knox, in the latter's effort to recruit international police but also makes guarded allusions to the legality of actual recourse to French troops, he cannot seriously assume that the League Council would be party to handing over the Saar region to the military power of one of the interested states. Neither do the Council's decisions of 1925, and 1926 mentioned by Barthou afford any justification for sending foreign troops into the Saar territory during the plebiscite period."

WORK OF THE LEAGUE

French Press Criticism

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, September 28, 4.30 p.m.)

Paris, September 28. The close of the fifteenth League Session is severely criticised by the Paris Press which are unanimously of the opinion that little has been accomplished. The three-power declaration on Austria has evoked little enthusiasm here and disappointment has been caused by the attitude of the Little Entente.

"The Echo de Paris" stated that French diplomacy has failed to harmonise with the activities of the Little Entente and Italy. M. Barthou's efforts have failed entirely and in the circumstances his projected visit to Rome is fraught with danger. The French Minister runs the risk of playing the role of "super" at the celebrations commemorating the march on Rome.

"Le Journal" severely criticizes the League and declares that the gentlemen of Geneva have proved their impotence. Another newspaper declares that the worst, at least, has been averted.

While it is admitted in well-informed quarters that a basis of agreement on the purchase price of the Chinese Eastern Railway has been reached, it is stated that these negotiations are regarded as preliminary to the resumption of the official conference on the subject between the Soviet and Manchukuo authorities.

It is said that the recent negotiations were resumed after the Japanese had taken the initiative and had made a higher offer than previously, and that the final success of the negotiations depends from the Soviet viewpoint, on the outcome of the discussions and a number of other factors which, presumably, include such matters as how the money is to be paid, and the future of the C.E.R. employees.

INDEPENDENCE OF AUSTRIA

French Press Comment

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, September 28, 7.30 p.m.)

Paris, September 28. Commenting on the three-power declaration concerning Austria's independence which was proclaimed on Thursday at Geneva with considerable ado, "Le Matin" characterises the result of the long drawn out negotiations as "very meagre" adding that the reaffirmation of the declaration of last February evidently constitutes the compromise formula. Pertinax writing in the "Echo de Paris" says he does not share M. Barthou's enthusiasm in regard to his prospect of successfully mediating between Italy and Yugoslavia during his forthcoming visit to Rome. Pertinax considers the Foreign Minister's impending journey to be insufficiently prepared and thinks that Barthou will be running the risk of merely playing the part of superfluous appendage amid rounds of festivities organised for the occasion.

ANGLO-GERMAN TRADE DISCUSSION

London, Sept. 27.

Sir Frederick Leith Ross, head of the British delegation for the discussion of Anglo-German trade problems, is due to arrive here on Friday night when he will make a verbal report on the progress of the negotiations in Berlin hitherto. According to the written report furnished to the British Government by him after the signature preliminary to the agreement, the difficulties opposing the arrangement for a satisfactory permanent agreement are extraordinarily great. As the British delegation is now quite clear about the aims and extent of the new German devisa and import restrictions, consultation with the trade authorities in London are particularly desirable before the chief tasks are attacked by the Berlin conference. The advantage of a provisional agreement prolonging the status quo of the Anglo-German exchange is that the arrangements allow adequate time for negotiations.

During Ross's absence from Berlin, proceedings have been suspended but he is expected to be back early next week.

BRITISH MOTOR INDUSTRY

In A Flourishing Condition

London, Sept. 27.

British motor manufacturers report exceptional and quite unprecedented interest is being shown in 1935 models, recently announced.

As an indication, one leading firm says its export orders have increased 35 per cent. and another 34 per cent. over those received in the corresponding period last year.

In 1933 British motor cars exported reached a total value of £8,740,584 and it is already known that the figure for 1934 will be very much larger.

This year's International Motor Show will open at Olympia, London, October 11. One of the features of this year's models will be their silence combined with speed. Most manufacturers have come to the conclusion that the day of the "healthy sports note" once in such demand by the younger school of drivers, is definitely over—perhaps because it made them so unpopular with their elders.

National League Pennant

New York, Sept. 27.
New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals are rivals for the National League baseball pennant.

The Giants have won 93 games and lost 58 and the Cardinals have won 92 and lost 58. Giants have two more games and Cardinals three.

If the Giants fail to take the National League pennant, it will be the first time in a good many years that one of the two New York teams has not fought in the World Series. This year the Yankees were subdued by the formerly lowly Detroit Tigers, who had not won a title for almost a quarter of a century.

LAWN BOWLS NOTES

Records Of Champions This Season

Craigengower "A" realised their ambitions in the Lawn Bowls League last Saturday when they secured the championship by a victory over their "B" team, who had given them their initial defeat early in the season. Kowloon Bowling Green Club last season's senior champions, had an unexpected reverse at Kowloon Docks, and they thus surrendered a small chance they had for the honours. But for the defeat of the holders, the championship issue would have remained open until the last game to-day when Craigengower "A" meet the Police. The securing of the championship is no new thing for Craigengower, as they had performed the "hat-trick" until Kowloon C.C. and their neighbours deprived them of the honours in subsequent seasons.

The following is the record of Craigengower "A" this season:—

(a) Beat Civil Service by 1 shot
(b) Beat Kowloon Docks by 33 shots
(c) Beat Kowloon C.C. by 38 shots
(d) Lost to Craigengower "B" by 8 shots

(a) Beat Talkoo by 30 shots
(b) Lost to Recreio by 12 shots
(c) Beat Police by 42 shots
(d) Beat Kowloon B.G.C. by 13 shots

(a) Beat Kowloon Docks by 39 shots
(b) Beat Kowloon C.C. by 12 shots
(c) Beat Talkoo by 48 shots
(d) Beat Recreio by 16 shots

(a) Beat Kowloon B.G.C. by 4 shots
(b) Beat Civil Service by 21 shots
(c) Beat Craigengower "B" by 20 shots

Kowloon Bowling Green Club's record is as follows:—

(a) Beat Kowloon C.C. by 11 shots
(b) Beat Talkoo by 25 shots
(c) Beat Recreio by 23 shots
(d) Beat Kowloon Docks by 3 shots

(a) Beat Civil Service by 27 shots
(b) Beat Police by 35 shots
(c) Lost to Craigengower "A" by 13 shots
(d) Beat Kowloon C.C. by 4 shots

(a) Beat Talkoo by 17 shots
(b) Beat Recreio by 3 shots
(c) Beat Civil Service by 3 shots
(d) Beat Craigengower "B" by 19 shots

(a) Lost to Police by 21 shots
(b) Lost to Craigengower "A" by 4 shots
(c) Beat Craigengower "B" by 52 shots
(d) Lost to Kowloon Docks by 26 shots

The junior champions, Indian R.C. had a wonderful season after opening with a defeat. The following were the results of their engagements:—

(a) Lost to Yacht Club by 35 shots
(b) Beat Craigengower by 18 shots
(c) Beat Football Club by 8 shots
(d) Beat Kowloon B.G.C. by 10 shots

(a) Beat Kowloon C.C. by 5 shots
(b) Beat Civil Service by 15 shots
(c) Beat Recreio by 2 shots
(d) Beat H.K. Electric by 19 shots

(a) Beat Craigengower by 44 shots
(b) Beat Football Club by 44 shots
(c) Lost to Police by 5 shots
(d) Beat Civil Service by 37 shots

(a) Beat Recreio by 13 shots
(b) Beat H.K. Electric by 14 shots
(c) Beat Police by 12 shots
(d) Beat Kowloon C.C. by 8 shots

(a) Lost to Yacht Club by 27 shots
(b) Drew with Kowloon B.G.C.

With the championship in both divisions already decided, there will be little interest in this afternoon's games other than that they are the last of the League fixtures. In the senior division, Craigengower "A" should have no difficulty in beating the Police. Civil Service and Talkoo who play on home grounds, should win, while Kowloon Docks are likely to turn the game in their favour at King's Park. Police (home), Kowloon C.C. (home), Yacht Club (home) and Bowling Green (away) appear as the probable winners in the junior games.

Better News In The Bulletins

London, Sept. 27.
Better news of Don Bradman, famous Australian batsman, was contained in both bulletins issued to-day from a London nursing home where he lies seriously ill after appendicitis operation. British Wireless.
A Reuter message stated: Bradman's condition is still much the same, but his pulse is stronger. The improvement was maintained, the patient having had a better night.

CURRENT NEWS FROM CHINA

NEWS AND COMMENTS FROM THE NORTH

THE PARLOUS STATE OF CHINA'S FISHERY TRADE

Organisations Need Effective Replacement

Shanghai, Sept. 19.

China's over 4,000 miles of coastline provide her with vast potentialities in the way of developing a fishery trade second to few countries of the world. In spite of this fact, the "Central China Daily News" observes that through lack of efficient exploitation of such natural resources, China's fishery trade is less prosperous than countries having considerably smaller fishing grounds, the main reasons being the reluctance of fishermen to abandon their primitive methods of fishing, and the Government's failure to provide adequate protection for the industry. Fishery rights in Chinese waters have never been strictly enforced, and foreign fishing boats freely encroach on what should be preserves of native fishermen. They then sell their catch to China, and as a result, an annual loss in this trade alone aggregates $140,000,000. Unless some remedial measures are devised immediately, not only will the fishery trade collapse but China's coastal defence will also be seriously affected.

Although, for the last few years the Ministry of Industry has often publicly announced its plans for reforms, no signs of improvement are yet to be seen. It is true that many organizations have been set up with the object of assisting the development of the industry, but so far nothing tangible has been accomplished. The so-called "ten-year fishery-improvement" plan and the "five-year" plan for fishery reforms, have remained dead letters since their statutory promulgation two years ago, and instead of proving beneficial, have had the opposite effect upon the fishery trade. The tightening of China's control over her waters foreshadowed by those measures have only led to more intensive activities by foreign fishing interests with a view of forestalling this move.

JAPAN'S BOASTS

Japan, which is only an island empire, now boasts of one of the most prosperous fishery trades in the world, while, China, a country many times larger than Japan, finds her fishery trade on the verge of failure. Why? The explanation must chiefly be ascribed to indifference on the part of the authorities concerned, which pay little or no attention to this particular industry. The Fishery Law passed in 1910, notwithstanding several revisions, has failed to cope with the situation. Experimental fisheries had once been set up in Shantung, Kiangsu, Chekiang, and Kwangtung, but were subsequently closed down on account of shortage of funds. The many fishery schools now in existence are of no practical value, because the instruction they offer lack that chiefest of essentials, utility.

This deplorable situation requires urgent remedying, declares the "Central China Daily News" and the authorities concerned, instead of merely working out comprehensive plans, and leaving them at that, should, concentrate all their efforts and energies on actual work, producing immediate and concrete results. All the so-called organizations established for the purpose of promoting fishery trade, having shown their futility, should be abolished forthwith, and the much-needed money diverted to help materially the 1,500,000 fishermen who are actually engaged in keeping alive the industry. The protection of Chinese fisheries and the promotion of the trade is a first and necessary step in the larger question of looking after China's coastal defence.

THREE STEAMERS COMPLETED

Nanking, Sept. 14.

Three of the four ocean steamers, ordered from England by the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company and paid for out of a loan from the British Boxer Indemnity Refund, have been completed.

According to a telegram from Mr. Wu Te-ming, special deputy despatched to England as supervisor of construction, the steamer "Hal Yuan" left England yesterday and is expected to reach China in the middle of next month. The "Hal Li" was launched yesterday while the "Hal Chen" will be launched on the 25th inst. The "Hal Heng" is also nearing completion.

These new steamers, it may be recalled, constitute part of the expansion programme of the China Merchants S. N. Co. The ships will be commissioned to run between the South Sea Islands and the China coast.

THE POLITICAL ARENA

More Visits To The Colony

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Sept. 23. Mr. Tang Shao Yi, magistrate of Chungshan Model County, is expected here on Monday to resume his duties in the South-west Political Council. People in Chungshan Model County have raised a hue and cry against Mr. Tang but have failed to remove him owing to his influence and connection with the Government here.

Mr. Tang will come to Canton via Hong Kong, where he will call on Mr. Hu Han Min, retired Nanking official. The two men will discuss high politics in the Colony, particularly the future relations with Nanking.

General Li Chung Jen, Commander-in-Chief of the Kwang armies, is reported to have left here for Hong Kong by train yesterday afternoon. Although it is said that he goes to the Colony for sight seeing, it is believed that he is consulting Mr. Hu Han Min on important political affairs.

As the coming Fifth National Congress of the Kuomintang has a great bearing on Kwangtung and Kwangsi, General Li goes to Hong Kong to consult Mr. Hu Han Min on what should be the stand of the South-west.

There have been many rumours of an open split between Canton and Nanking, but if the political status of Canton remains unchanged, there will be no civil war or political troubles in this part of the country.

GUNBOAT DETAINED

Pinghai Involved In Smuggling

The smuggling was discovered by the preventive service organized by the Provincial Department of Finance. The captain, officers, and crew will be tried for the offence.

Because of the extensive smuggling, the Ministry of Finance desires to establish Chinese customs in Hong Kong, where duties are to be paid.

NEW YORK STOCK AND COMMODITY QUOTATIONS

AMERICAN ORIENTAL FINANCE CORPORATION AND S. E. LEVY &amp; CO.

New York, Sept. 27.

The American Oriental Finance Corporation's report through their New York agents, Messrs. E. A. Pierce & Co. states:

Stocks:—We still like the action of the market and believe that trading positions on the long-side should be maintained.

Wheat:—The undertone was firm. Trading was moderate, with some disposition to await President Roosevelt's broadcast speech on Sunday evening. The seeding of winter grains has made favourable progress and some increase in acreage is anticipated.

Cotton:—Demand was somewhat broader at the opening, but tapered off. Hedge selling was moderate. With the favourable weather for gathering, we expect full earnings. Many producers are taking advantage of the Government loan.

Rubber:—The market recovered after the opening on the strength of London prices. Later, selling of March rubber by speculative interests forced prices lower. Dealers were buyers, while Commission Houses operated both ways.

Flash:—Brokers' Loans have decreased by $5,000,000.

New York, Sept. 27.

Messrs. S. E. Levy & Company's report through their New York agents, Messrs. White, Weld & Co. states:

THREE LEAGUE LEADERSHIPS CHANGE HANDS

45,000 See Arsenal's Convincing Victory: Only Two Away Teams Win

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 27.

The pace-making positions in three divisions of the League changed hands as a result of last night's games. Sunderland now head the First Division, Brentford are top of the Second Division, and Chester lead Lincoln City in the Third Northern on goal average.

In the First Division Sunderland went ahead by virtue of their 3-0 win over the newly-promoted Grimsby Town. But Arsenal, having a match in hand, are not far behind the leaders—a victory by four clear goals against Blackburn Rovers before 45,000 spectators at Highbury helped them to make a big jump towards the top.

Manchester City, Middlesbrough, and Huddersfield lost their unbeaten records. The cup-holders crashed at Liverpool—the team Arsenal got eight goals against—Middlesbrough were upset by Weddies' one goal for Portsmouth, and Huddersfield slumped badly against Derby County.

Nearly 35,000 people saw Brentford beat Fulham to take premier place in the Second Division. A goal by Muttitt brought about Fulham's first defeat.

Newport County lost their 100 per cent record at Bournemouth. But in the Third Northern Chester gained full points for the fourth time. Only two away teams won in the sixteen games staged—Charlton Athletic and Queen's Park Rangers.

BRITISH-AMERICAN CUP YACHTING

The winner's time was 2 hours 18 minutes 45 seconds, while the time of Kyia, the first British boat to finish, was 2 hours 23 minutes and 25 seconds.

LATE NIGHT CABLES

The following cables were received last night from New York by the American Oriental Finance Corporation:

London Forecast:—Unless any unfavourable development occurs during to-day's session, Wall Street is expected again to improve, though the volume of business is not anticipated to increase.

Wheat: The marketing is light. Rubber: The market may open a little better.

Cotton: Not much change is expected. Speculation is dormant, awaiting President Roosevelt's broadcast on Sunday.

A.O.F.C. New York Cables:—Stock: Week-end profit taking is likely but is limited awaiting the President's Sunday speech, which is considered the important near term factor.

Cotton: Hedging is more active but there is better support in evidence. Recent liquidation has undoubtedly improved the market technically, we would rather buy now on the scaledown.
